

FOREST AND SEA

Em                    D            Em
You are the forest, you are the trees,
          G                    B7
I am the water, I am the sea.
      Em                            D
The wind in the treetops, is music to you,
                                  C            Em
the wind and the waves are my symphony.

Em        G            D        Em
There is a place, where forest and sea,
          G            F#        B7
          both come together, to sing harmony.
Em                            D
The shoreline is where, forest and sea,
                                  C            Em
          both come together, in sweet symmetry.

The evergreen trees, whisper your name,
the outgoing tide, keeps calling me.
Deep in the forest, you feel secure,
far out to sea, I feel so assured.

The trees are a shelter, I know I am safe.
From this cathedral, I'm drawn out to sea.
In the still of the forest, you are at peace.
the wind from the sea, is calling my name.

We stand on the shore, stand for a while,
you look to the forest, I look to the sea.
The whispering trees, call you by name,
The incoming tide, is coming for me.

Ari J. Rocklin - 1983